

SWAT Reservoir Input form is not popping up

Posted by azoller - 2009/08/12 23:23

I am using ArcGIS 9.3. In the watershed pour points dialogue, I am using my own point theme with an ID field, and I select these with no problem, AGWA successfully discretizes the watershed and the subwatershed outlets occur at the pond points. But when the discretization process is completed, no SWAT Reservoir input form pops up, as it does when I use AGWA 1.5. Do you have any suggestions?

did you ever find the solution, or just use version 1.5 instead? i just started working on the issue of reservoirs within my basin, but i'm working on a bit of a timeline (same as everyone else i'm sure), so i'd really appreciate a timely response.

thanks for any input you might have azoller.

Hi,

I had talked with Shea over the phone about this perhaps a couple months ago. That part of the model was not working because someone in a different state hadn't finished that part of the module, and Shea was surprised it wasn't done yet. Hopefully I'm relaying that message correctly. Anyway, I had to use a different model because that was/is a key part of my research. You may want to get a hold of Shea, to find out for sure, or try using an older version. Amy

I asked our collaborator about the status of the reservoirs for SWAT last week. It sounds like they are most of the way there but have run into a glitch with the routing. He was meeting with the person doing the work on Monday to discuss it, but I haven't heard anything about how it went.

If I have time I will take a crack at the ponds for KINEROS in the coming week. When I have more news, I will post back.

I just wanted to post an update on the reservoirs. I have not had a chance to work on the code so nothing has changed, but later this spring finishing the incorporation of reservoirs and ponds will be a priority. It's too early for me to give an estimate on when it will be done, but I would guess by May.
